Elections will not be held due to the lack of possibilities and bad weather conditions

Afghanistan Independent Elections Commission (AIEC) says it is not possible to hold next year's presidential elections in the spring.

In an exclusive interview with Quqnoos.com, the head of commission's secretariat said the problems are lack of possibilities and bad weather conditions.

The parliament of Afghanistan has verified before that the next presidential elections should be held before May, 2009.

The parliament had emphasized that the AIEC must specify an exact date for the upcoming elections soon.

AIEC said it will specify the elections' time in the near future.
